Hi,

I’m following up my letter about film and television production with a note about radio and print. I found David Sarnoff’s Sirian cross-arm photo (1891 to 1971). As you probably know, he is considered a pioneer in radio and television as founder of the Radio Corporation of America (RCA) in 1919.

As for print, I’ve discovered various book authors and famous newspaper celebrities. Some of the photos are from the nineteenth century.

Left to right:

- David Sarnoff (1891 to 1971), founder, Radio Corporation of America (RCA) in 1919
- Walter “Walt” Whitman (1819 to 1892), an American poet, essayist, and journalist.
- Charles Lutwidge Dodgson (1832 to 1898), known by his pen name Lewis Carroll, an English writer, mathematician, logician, Anglican deacon, and photographer. He is most known for his Alice’s Adventures in Wonderland, its sequel Through the Looking-Glass.
- Sir James Matthew Barrie, 1st Baronet, OM (1860 to 1937) was a Scottish novelist and playwright, best remembered today as the creator of Peter Pan.
- William Randolph Hearst (1863 to 1951), a newspaper publisher who built Hearst Communications, the nation’s largest newspaper chain and media company.
- Alan Alexander Milne (1882 to 1956), an English author, best known for his books about the teddy bear Winnie-the-Pooh.

The next page contains photos of contemporary celebrities who have worked in print.

• Bob Woodward image in “Watergate: The Video Game” (Read Sam Byford’s review of this game in his article titled, “Point and click to take down Nixon in ‘Watergate: The Video Game’” published May 6, 2013 in The Verge (https://www.theverge.com/2013/5/6/4306926/watergate-the-video-game-8-bit-retro-adventure)).

Bob Woodward is an investigative journalist and non-fiction author who has worked for The Washington Post since 1971. He is now an associate editor of the Post.

• Michael Crichton (1942 to 2008) was an American best-selling author, screenwriter, film director and producer. Crichton’s books have sold over 200 million copies worldwide, and many have been adapted into films. In 1994, he became the only creative artist ever to have works simultaneously charting at No. 1 in U.S. television (ER), film (Jurassic Park), and book sales (Disclosure).

• Dan Brown (b. 1964) is an author most known for his 2003 novel The Da Vinci Code. His books have been translated into 52 languages, and as of 2012, sold over 200 million copies. Three of his books, Angels & Demons (2000), The Da Vinci Code (2003), and Inferno (2013), have been adapted into films making his work a franchise.

Sincerely,
